This Week's Welcome Message

Thanks to everyone who dressed up for last week's NSPCC Number Day. The children enjoyed lots of practical maths activities. Please encourage your children with their timestables and Timestables Rockstars.

School is closed for teacher training this Thursday and Friday 13th and 14th May. We will be back at school as usual on Monday.

EID MUBARAK TO ALL OUR FAMILIES WHO WILL BE CELEBRATING LATER THIS WEEK!

Just Keep Reading!

Thank you for your support. Remember, the best COVID catch-up you can provide at home is reading support. #Take Ten - reading for just 10 minutes a day makes a difference!

The Green Heroes Gardening Club

Busy, busy are you Green Heroes, even in your lunchtime you are still keeping up our garden's appearance and planting lots of seeds to keep it forever in bloom. Thank you☺

It will get warmer soon so don't forget water bottles, sun hats and sun Cream.

Let's get Cooking!

As so many of us have been creating many culinary delights during lock down we thought that it would be a great idea to share them. If you have any recipes and photos of your favourite family meals please email Julie Walsh, family worker as she is setting up an E cookery book for our website.

If you need financial support for school uniform, please contact school or email Julie Walsh, family worker jwalsh@oldmoat.manchester.sch.uk

Google Forms

Check your email for the Google Form that was emailed to you last Friday regarding future support groups and sessions in school, for parents. Your ideas are really important so don't miss out on the chance to speak up!

Do you want a paper copy of the newsletter?

Data checking forms will go out soon and we are also asking you to confirm if you would like a paper copy of the weekly newsletter. As you are probably aware, it has been going out electronically for some time. It is also available to view on the website.

Please let us know if you do require a paper copy on the form sent home.
